

Preparing to Serve as First Responder Chaplains

Oregon Chaplains Basics Academy

Academy instructors are experienced First Responder Chaplains and professional mental health clinicians. They provide you with up-to-date information and knowledge of policies and procedures. The skill-based practice in class prepares participants to face real world situations on scenes helping First Responders and members of the community. Training days are fast paced with variety each day. There is ample opportunity to have conversations and ask your unique questions over lunch or free time in the evenings.

As a basics academy, the class environment is a safe place to learn and try out new skills. Participants often develop deep friendships that may last over your chaplaincy career. We encourage an attitude of respect for one another and those whom we serve.

OCA Basics is held at the Department of Public Safety Standards and Training, which is the home for training and licensing of First Responders. During the week, you will eat meals and sleep in dorms with new recruits going through their academy experience. It provides a rich environment for familiarizing yourself with First Responder culture.

Here is a sample of some of the topics covered in the academy:

- Crisis Response
- Death Notifications
- Physiology of Trauma
- First Responder Families
- Moral Injury
- Suicide
- Line of Duty Death
- Grief & Loss
- Working with Children
- Chaplaincy in a Diverse Culture
- Building Relationships with First Responders

Concluding the academy, participants will receive a certificate of completion. Whether you choose to serve as chaplain alongside of police, fire, emergency medical services, dispatch, or medical examiners, you will discover the critical skills and tools needed to engage in First Responder Chaplaincy.
